

@THEBRIEPOD

How to start a Podcast

FIRST STEPS

WWW.BRIEPOD.COM

PODCAST

@THEBRIEPOD

step 1: USB Microphone

After hours of research,
I learned you do not need the fanciest microphone set up. You can still have good quality sound on a budget!

Be sure to do your research on which USB mic works best for you. I personally use the BLUE YETI!

WWW.BRIEPOD.COM

@THEBRIEPOD

step 2:

Looking to have guests?

When I first started I was on a budget and needed a place to record my audio. Zoom has this cool feature where you can record audio and video for your podcast-- Just with a click in the settings. Plus, Zoom is free!

(Unless you are looking to interview 2-10 guests past 45 minutes. Then you may want pro)

WWW.BRIEPOD.COM

PODCAST

@THEBRIEPOD

step 3: RSS Feed

What is an RSS Feed?

An RSS feed will push your audio content to your listeners, so it is front and center in their podcast listening platforms like Apple Podcasts and Google Play. This can cost a monthly fee varying from $14.99+/mo. I personally use Spreaker.com.

Remember there are multiple RSS Feed sites available so, do the research and pick what is right for you.

WWW.BRIEPOD.COM

PODCAST

@THEBRIEPOD

Need more help?

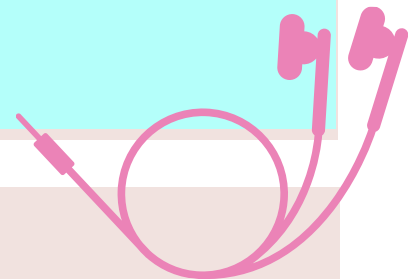

These three steps are the beginning stages to starting a Podcast.

If you feel called to expand your knowledge further, sign up here for my continued 8 step process.

I will share with you the continued process that I found helpful in creating The Brie Pod.

I have created this guide to help you on your journey and give you direction into your dream of leading your own Podcast.

WWW.BRIEPOD.COM